Who Did These Things?

Five years ago the marketing of cotton in Alabama was a chaotic business. The average loss caused by careless handling amounted to $2.50 per bale. Two to half a dozen samples were drawn from each bale, and the owners went from buyer to buyer for prices. Although they had the greatest agricultural commodity in the world they were literally beggars and at the mercy of those whose interests conflicted with

Warehousing rates were high because many inferior warehouses were being used. Likewise, insurance

There were many unfair and burdensome freight rates which worked against Alabama cotton growers Farmers knew nothing of these, although they were paying them. They were all figured against them Interest rates on cotton were 8 per cent and up; and this, too, was paid by the growers. All others operated on a margin of profit which left the farmer with "the bag to hold" and pay the bills. But all of these things have been changed. Alabama farmers are now selling like real men. They have cut out waste; they have reduced storage and insurance rates; and interest rates have gone down from 8 per cent or more to as low as 4 1-2 per cent. Farreaching freight rate adjustments have been made and these all work to the advantage of cotton grow-

While these improvements have been "in the making" the fertilizer business of Alabama has been revolutionized. Instead of using it blindly farmers are using it intelligently. They are using it as recommend ed by their county agents who follow experimental results of the college of agriculture at Auburn. Furthermore, the purchase of fertilizer has been placed on a sound basis. That price levels are much lower than they would have been without this mighty force working in the interest of agriculture there is no doubt. Literally millions of dollars have been saved for the farmers of Alabama each year through better buying and the proper use of the right fertili-

Likewise, efficiency in production, including soil improvement has become a watch-word of the leading farmers. On every hand there are signs of progress—evidence that farmers are waking up and demand-

Who did all these things? Did they just happen or did some mighty constructive force rise up in the interest of agriculture?

The answer is the Farm Bureau-state and county. This organization has mustered the constructive forces and is leading them to a bigger and better agriculture and more prosperous farm living in Alabama. It has done so with the cooperation of the county agents and others of the Extension Service and Experiment Station of the College of Agricul-

Although the Farm Bureau membership includes a small minority of all farmers in Alabama this minority has carried the torch and is blazing the trail which is re-making the business of farming and farm living in Alabama. It is being done under the cooperative

It didn't "just happen." It came because there was an economic necessity—a vital demand. Without organization and cooperation farmers faced disaster; with it, they are promised success. Unless they are willing to obey the Golden Rule of Divine origion to "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," they cannot ask that their children remain on farms. Rather than this they should encourage their children to leave farms because they cannot ask them to live and work among people who do not have pride and are not willing to work together for mutual good.

After five years of cooperative work under the ori-ginal five year membership agreement the Farm Bureau in this county-and in Alabama-is being reorganized with a new seven-year agreement. All farmers who measure up to the Farm Bureau standard of doing a thing because it is fair and right and because it is essential to the success of farmers are invited to become members of the Farm Bureau. It is an organization "of farmers, for farmers, and by farmers:" but it earnestly seeks the hearty cooperation and help of business friends of farmers pledging

GUM-DIPPED TIRES

E recently were given the tremendous advantage of having the mammoth Firestone factories brought to us. In Tire Educational Meetings we were shown, by means of motion pictures, charts, tire samples and complete engineering data, the details of Firestone tire design and construction - and how Firestone and Oldfield tires and tubes are made in the world's most efficient and economical rubber factories.

Firestone pioneered the original low-pressure tire and made it practical by Gum-Dipping. The motion pictures showed us how the cords of the carcass are dipped in a rubber solution, thoroughly saturating and insulating every fiber of every cord with rubber. Simple demonstrations and tests illustrated the great advantage of this process, which supplies the extra strength to withstand the extra flexing strains of low-pressure construction—one of the reasons why Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires are establishing such unheard-of mileage records.

LOW RATES for time payments on these cars

NY FAMILY entitled to credit may buy a General Motors car and pay for it while using it, under the GMAC Plan.

When time payments first became an accepted form of car purchase, General Motors organized its own finance company, the General Motors Acceptance Corporation, to make sure that the sale of its cars on time would be in the buyer's interest and that the finance charges would be fair.

GMAC rates have always been low; and the last reduction has saved General Motors' customers more than $12,000,000.

The General Motors line includes "a car for every purse and purpose"-a suitable model for every income. You can buy it out of income, paying no more than the cash delivered price, plus only the low GMAC financing charge. And the whole transaction is so conducted as to keep your goodwill and satisfaction.
